European Commission 2020
- Assignment for research activities of a project on the counterfactual impact evaluation of European Social Fund interventions in practice (Counterfactual impact evaluation of European Social Fund interventions in practice - Guidance document for managing authorities) assigned by the European Commission. The purpose of this project is to present four case studies on European Social Fund (ESF) evaluation to showcase real problems and solutions when it comes to ESF evaluations or other programming of macro-economic aggregates, the labor market and educational training.
Output: DOI: 10.2767/55495

European Commission 2019
- Assignment for research activities on the study of counterfactual methods (Advanced counter-factual evaluation methods - Guidance document) assigned by the European Commission. The purpose of this project is to provide guidance for an introduction to advanced counterfactual impact evaluation (CIE) methods. The project is primarily intended for the managing authorities of the European Social Fund (ESF) and the European Social Fund Plus (ESF+) but it also applies to fields of comparative, of monetary and fiscal policies.
Output: DOI: 10.2767/464242

European Commission 2017
- Assignment for research activities on the feasibility study for the impact evaluation of the European Social Fund (Feasibility study for the overall impact evaluation of the European Social Fund) assigned by the European Commission. The project answers three main questions:
firstly, what are the most suitable spending data for evaluation; secondly, what are the most appropriate counterfactual evaluation methods, given the allocation of resources and data availability; finally, what are the most suitable variables for estimating the impact evaluations.
This includes policies for the programming of macro-economic aggregates, international policies and their coordination to improve the functions of economic institutions.
